What is the ACC?

The Arnold Community Council was formed in 2000 to support and promote and support the Air Force's Arnold Engineering Development Complex at Arnold AFB, Tenn. The group's Board of Directors meets every month with the AEDC commander, the monthly meetings are open to all members.

The Council gives savings bonds to military quarterly and annual award winners, and collects many other gifts from the community to honor these individuals for their service to our country. The Council also gives the winners free tickets to ACC's annual membership banquet, a special event featuring a prominent guest speaker, great food and hundreds of community leaders who support AEDC.

Council members attend and provide donations for a number of base and military related events, including the annual Veterans Picnic, annual AEDC Children's Christmas Party, Honor Flight, receptions and VIP events for civic leaders from other bases as well as other VIP groups/leaders visiting AEDC.

The Legislative Team spearheads an annual trip to Washington D.C. to visit the Pentagon, all of the Tennessee Congressional Delegation, plus Congressional offices representing AEDC Remote Operating Locations and military, government and commercial aerospace test customers.

Members are encouraged to get involved in Council activities... We need your support!

Where would we be without AEDC?

AEDC is America's Aerospace Advantage! Without the wrk done at AEDC America might not be the world's leading aerospace power. Plus if you own a business or work for a business in this area, stop and think about the patronage from AEDC employees – (banks, grocery stores, medical offices, car dealerships, etc.). The people of AEDC are vital for area growth and economic development.
